About us

SAHMRI is South Australia's flagship independent not-for-profit health and medical research institute.

We exist to deliver better, more equitable health care through our four major research themes: Lifelong Health, Aboriginal Health Equity, SAHMRI Women and Kids and Precision Cancer Medicine.

We believe in a healthier future for all Australians. We listen to the needs of our communities to deliver research that changes the way healthcare is delivered.

Through research excellence, innovation and strategic partnerships, we turn discoveries in health and medical research into impact for the community to improve their lives and the health of all Australians.

Australian Bragg Centre for Proton Therapy and Research

The Australian Bragg Centre for Proton Therapy and Research (ABCPTR) is a SAHMRI supported initiative that will bring the most advanced technology available for radiation treatment of people with rare cancer types, in particular children. It will be Australia's first proton therapy unit and the first of its kind in the southern hemisphere.

Proton therapy delivers precise, non-invasive radiation that has the capacity to eliminate tumours while minimising exposure to surrounding healthy tissues, enabling safer treatment of cancers in younger patients and cancers that are close to vital organs. The ABCPTR will open up innovative clinical trials opportunities for cancer patients in this new and exciting treatment field.

Clinical Trials and Clinical Research – the SAHMRI story

SAHMRI has established a strong reputation for conducting and providing independent oversight of clinical research and clinical trials within South Australia, across the nation and in other regions. We have a community of researchers who represent some of Australia's leading health and medical scientists and clinicians. They are supported across the organisation by teams of clinical and laboratory staff with extensive clinical trials expertise.

Broad opportunities are available to work with our team of experts as a patient, participant or a partner looking to conduct, or be involved in, clinical trials.

SAHMRI is located on Kaurna Country. We pay respects to the Kaurna people of the Adelaide Plains and all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. We are committed to embracing knowledge and culture as we continue our working journey to incorporate Aboriginal health research across all of our themes and further reconciliation.
